- curriculum fit and instructional design
- tolerance and understanding
- developmental appropriateness
- physical properties
- cost

Resource Authorization Categories

Basic learning resources are those student learning resources authorized by Alberta Education as the most appropriate for addressing the majority of outcomes of the course(s) or substantial components of the course(s); or the most appropriate for meeting general outcomes across two or more grades, subject areas or programs as outlined in provincial programs of study. Basic learning resources may include any resource format, such as print, computer software, manipulatives or videocassette.

Authorized Teaching resources are those teaching resources produced externally to Alberta Education; e.g., by publishers, that have been reviewed by Alberta Education, found to meet the criteria of review, and identified as the best available resources to support the implementation of programs of study and courses and to support the attainment of the goals of education. Teaching resources produced as service documents by Alberta Education, such as diagnostic programs and monographs, are authorized by definition.

Note:

Section 44(2)(a.1) of the School Act, Statutes of Alberta 1988, Chapter S–3.1, as amended, indicates that a school board may "...develop or acquire instructional materials for use in programs or in schools." Selection of instructional resources is not restricted to those authorized by Alberta Education.

It suggests that spontaneous play is necessary to give children the skills and attitudes about learning and life they will need to adapt to the demands of the future. What is the best way for children to make the most of their lives? They must engage in self-paced, child-controlled play! This resource describes what is known about how children grow and learn. It explains why play is so important and how play can be supported. What you find will change the way you teach or parent children from birth through their primary school years.
